BRITISH FORCES BOMBARD TURKISH POSITIONS NEAR CITY OF CONSTANTINOPLE

Allied Troops Are Compelled To Withdraw, Leaving Nationals In Possession

GREEK GIRLS ARE HELD AS HOSTAGES

Turks, Realizing Small Force Of English Troops, Constantly Defies the Navy.

London, July 6.—Turkish nationalist troops have occupied Belcos, on the Asiatic shore of the Bosphorus, about 10 miles from Constantinople, and opposite the allied headquarters on the European side, according to a dispatch to the Mail from Constantinople.
Fighting with the British and Greek troops in the town followed the entry of the nationalists.

The British fleet, says the report, bombed the Turkish positions. The nationalists, however, continue to hold Belcos, the allied troops having been withdrawn.

Bombardment Threatened.
Constantinople, July 1. (By The Associated Press.)—Bombardment of the town by airplane at Belcos and threatened in an ultimatum by the governor of Belcos, Vice-Admiral de Robeck, British commander at Constantinople, has been in charge of British military parties along the coast of the Sea of Marmora.

"Nationalist forces," says the ultimatum, "in violation of the peace treaty have attacked territory occupied by the British on the Sea of Marmora and have hindered the landing of forces from the fleet."

British Prestige Suffers British prestige has suffered a hard blow in the repulse of landing parties at various points in Turkish waters.
Turkish nationalists, realizing the British have not sufficient troops available to support their marines, have been defying the navy all along the Bosphorus and the Sea of Marmora.

The British warships are constantly firing at gun nests established by the nationalists in the mountains near ports in the area to be jointly occupied by the Allies under the treaty but nationalist snipers continue operations so close to the shore as to endanger shipping.

Fortifications Erected Extensive fortifications have been made by the British on the mountain at Belcos, near the north entrance of the Bosphorus, where the dreadnought Iron Duke has shelled bands in the surrounding mountains. Turks are holding 40 Greek girls and men at Belcos as hostages and are threatening their execution if the British bombard the city.

(Special to The Herald) of this city, has at the solicitation of his many political friends throughout the state, thrown his hat into the ring for the congressional nomination to succeed Augustine Lonergan, who has announced his retirement from the office. In Bristol as in many other cities and towns in the district, Mayor Dutton is well known, and he is in the opinion of his friends just the man to represent the district in Washington, D. C. in the highly efficient manner that Congressman Lonergan has set as a standard.

The entrance of Mayor Dutton into of the politicians since Congressman Lonergan decided to give up the Huntington, N. Y., July 6.—When W. G. McAdoo was informed upon arriving today that Governor Cox of Ohio had been nominated he said: "I am relieved and delighted the call did not come to me."

Mrs. McAdoo said:
"That's great."

Greetings From Davis.

London, July 6.—Ambassador John W. Davis today sent the following message to Governor Cox:

"My hearty congratulations upon your nomination. You can and will lead the party to a well deserved victory."

Candidate Is Silent.

Dayton, O., July 6.—Governor Cox today declined to make a statement regarding his nomination until he had received notification from the convention.

He received the news of his nomination in his newspaper offices surrounded by fellow-newspaper workers and a few relatives and friends.

When The Associated Press wires flashed the news of his nomination his first act was to cross the room and kiss his wife.

He then walked a few blocks to the home of his closest personal friend, John A. McMahon, aged 70, dean of Dayton lawyers, to whom he wished personally to give the news.

Mrs. Cox was elated over the nomination and immediately sent a telegram to her father Thomas P. Blair of Chicago.

To Visit Mother's Grave

Governor Cox planned to visit the grave of his mother today. She died at the age of 85 several years ago and lived to see him inaugurated governor for a first term.

An Ohio newspaper publisher will be the next president, Senator Harding, the republican nominee, and Governor Cox both are publishers in the state.

Edwards Is Satisfied.

Jersey City, N. J., July 6.—Governor Edwards, of New Jersey, sent the following message to Governor Cox:

"Sincere congratulations. Your nomination is well deserved and spells success."

Commenting upon the nomination, Governor Edwards said:
"It is the best the convention could have done. I shall do all I can to help elect Governor Cox."

Governor Edwards declared he could not consider the vice-presidential nomination if it were offered to him.

Baker Well Pleased

Washington, July 6.—Secretary Baker issued the following statement:

"In his three terms as governor of Ohio, Governor Cox has demonstrated his great executive ability and his forward-looking and aggressive democracy. He is fearless and high-minded. During the war he put all the resources of his office and his personal talents into the struggle and stood unwaveringly with those who were making and keeping America ready to do her great task. The nomination will be received with joy and pride in Ohio and the country will find him an aggressive democrat with a record of achievement."

Governor Cox will be asked immediately to exert his influence to bring about ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Tennessee legislature, it was announced today by the National Woman's Party.

Harding Feels State Pride.
Marion, Ohio, July 6.—Senator Harding received the news of Governor Cox's nomination today. In a statement the senator said Cox deserved the nomination but that his selection would not change republican campaign plans in Ohio.

"Governor Cox's nomination," Senator Harding said, "is an added consideration shown to our great state of Ohio, for which I am glad, and gives reasonable assurance that finally a newspaperman is to be made the nation's chief executive. Ohio has accorded Governor Cox very unusual distinction and he deserved his notable victory."

PALMER WITHDRAWS FROM RACE AND COX NAMED ON 44th BALLOT AFTER HIS SUPPORTERS SWING TO OHIO

James M. Cox, Democratic Nominee, Who He Is And What He Has Done In His Native State

James M. Cox was born at Jacksonburg, Butler county, Ohio, March 21, 1870. He had a public school and high school education. His early life was spent working on a farm and attending school. His parents were not even comfortably supplied with money and young Cox "had to work for all he got."

While still a boy he became printer's devil on a Cincinnati newspaper, and then after a short season teaching school, became a reporter on the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bought Dayton Paper.
His shrewd appraisal of men and things won him favor in the sight of Paul Sorg, millionaire tobacco man, and when Sorg was elected to congress in the '90s, Cox became his private secretary. That was the Ohio governor's real entry into politics. His acuteness as a secretary caused Sorg to back him financially in buying the Dayton News in 1898.

Within two years The News, from a liability, became one of Dayton's best paying enterprises. It was Cox's uneasy perception of public opinion that made him a successful editor. At that time he showed no signs of becoming a reformer.

As the paper grew and earned more money, Cox bought the Springfield Press-Republic in 1903 and formed the News League of Ohio with himself as owner and editorial director.

Elected Governor.
It was in 1909 that Cox, who had had his "eye on" Ohio politics since his seasonal in Washington, made formal entry into state politics. He served the third Ohio district in congress from that year until 1913. Then he was elected governor. Republicans said that his election as a democrat was an accident.

He was defeated for re-election by Frank B. Willis, republican, but in 1917 Cox "came back," defeating Willis with a big plurality. He was elected for a two-year term in 1919, and had hardly assumed office before the great floods swept Dayton and the Miami and Scioto valleys.

Cox won nation-wide recognition by his quick realization of flood conditions and his prompt and energetic action. For three days and nights he did not leave his office. He became the supreme authority in the devastated region. Martial law was established. He directed life-saving expeditions, food and clothing was gathered and shipped by his direction. He brought some semblance of order out of chaos within a short time.

Ruled in Riots.
Hardly had people ceased to talk of his action during the disaster, when the steel mill strikes in Ohio brought him again into prominence as a man of decisive action. Riots broke out in many parts of the state.
Cox issued a proclamation calling on all officials to enforce the laws against strikers and operators alike. Riots

Cox decided the democratic mayor was at fault, removed him, established a republican mayor and held troops in readiness to support the new mayor's order. They were never called for service.

Cox's terms as governor were marked by progressive legislation—infact, it was this that caused his defeat when he ran for the second time.
In the first session he sponsored and compelled the legislature to pass before its adjournment 56 progressive measures.

Interests Fought Him.
Many of these laws squeezed powerful interests and, in retaliation, it is said, they combined to cause his defeat.

Cox's workmen's compensation law is declared by King Albert of Belgium to be a model for the world. It eliminated the chief causes for argument between employer and employee and made the compensation of injured workmen or their families an automatic action of the state.

Child labor and "blue sky" laws, that have been copied by many other states, were fathered by Cox. Initiative and referendum were hobbies of the governor. He saw that prisoners were given healthful occupation and abolished child labor and sweat shops in the state.

Cox was an enthusiastic sportsman and a great lover of hunting dogs. He plays golf and is a baseball fan.

"The Man Who Does."
The Ohio man is spoken of by his friends as "Cox, the man who does!" Cox married Miss Margaret Blair of Chicago, in 1917. They have one child. A previous marriage in 1893, when Cox was a reporter on a newspaper, was unsuccessful and was terminated several years ago by a decree of divorce after an uncontested hearing. No blame attached to Cox, friends of the family say.

COX WILL ACCEPT

Dayton, O., July 6.—Governor Cox today sent a telegram to the democratic convention announcing he nation the delegates should shroud their action.

THREE PERSONS DROWN.

Utica, July 6.—Agnes Selbach, her sister Elizabeth, Edward Grace and Harold Long, all of Whitesboro, were drowned while bathing in Onondaga lake at Verona Beach, yesterday afternoon.
Wading out, they slipped off a sand bar into a deep pool. All were in their early twenties.

The series of polo games on the field of the Shuttle Meadow club, have been postponed one day. The
